Time lapse to Hernona - After years of work and with no remuneration and still no results, the pressure and the images that have accumulated in these years are taking the form of a series of photos to sell to the highest bidder or, at least, to put this talent, to which I have dedicated so much time and which I have not been able to repay, in the hands of those who can finally take them to the maximum of their potential in the market that we are getting more and more the mediocracy, where photography is becoming a simple device to obtain mass of images, selfies, self-portraits, weddings, etc. The reality in which we live is coming very close to the dream of the advertising agencies, the ideal of individualizing everything in the service of sale, abandoning the ideal of producing images for their intrinsic, social and artistic value and assuming that the entire value of the image, which is made up of the appearance of the object or the subject that it represents, lies in its capacity to serve a market. A photographer / Hugo Fabre M^a de Azevedo A photo set called Meu Rossio, depicts the various events of a day in the life of the city's central square, Rossio, in Lisbon, the Portuguese capital. As the street's name suggests, this area's main attraction is its central park, where there are many people and things to look at, places for meals and gardens where kids can play. This photo set is a photo essay comprised of three portraits taken during the afternoon, evening and early morning. Forty photos taken every day, from 9:00 to 18:00, in a city that I like a lot, which I have lived in for a long time, which I love so much, which I love for its inhabitants, and which I also love because of its life, its economy, its culture and all the richness that we have in the cities of the world. I was there for two years, which is why I have such a wide selection of photos. Of course, there are lots of pictures of people who ask me to photograph them, and the people who come to photograph me! The remaining pictures are of things that have interested me, whether they are good or bad, or simply interesting, or that I've seen a hundred times before. They're not just mine. They are the city's. Leonel Moura, 5/08/2017 An old and 82157476af
